

Dr. Panayotis Alexakis is Professor of Managerial Economics and Markets at the Department of Economics of the University of Athens. He has been a scholar of the "Alexander S. Onassis" Public Benefit Foundation. He has also taught at the Department of Business Administration of the University of the Aegean, at the Hellenic and Cypriot Open University, in postgraduate business programs and in business seminars. During his career he has dealt with issues relating to the cooperation between the university and enterprises. He has worked at the Ministry of Finance, at the Bank of Greece, as a consultant to enterprises and organizations and has held management posts. He has been chairman and CEO at the Athens Derivatives Exchange since 1998 and the Athens Stock Exchange since 2000, until 2004. He has participated in scientific conferences with papers and has published articles in scientific journals. His scientific work is recognized worldwide. He is a member of scientific associations, and is currently Director at the Center for Financial Studies, at the Department of Economics of the University of Athens.