

Dr. Nikolaos Milonas is a Professor of Finance at the Department of Economics, University of Athens. He holds a M.B.A. degree from Baruch College and a Ph.D. degree in Finance from the City University of New York. He has taught finance courses at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, at Baruch College and at ALBA. Over the years, he has developed and administered master's level educational programs for executives in various companies. His research work focuses on issues in capital, derivatives, and energy markets with a special emphasis in the area of institutional investing. His numerous articles have been published in prestigious academic journals including the Journal of Finance. In his professional career he had assumed the role of Investments Director with an insurance company, he was Chairman of the investment committee of a mutual fund company, and has served as consultant to banks, institutional investors and securities firms. Currently he is a non-executive director on the Board of the Hellenic Exchanges and chairs the company's Audit Committee.